

SaaS Pricing Sensitivity Report

CloudHR Pro · saas_b2b

Generated on 2026-06-29T05:49:54.003978

Executive Summary

CloudHR Pro's current pricing structure undervalues premium features like API access and payroll processing, leading to an overpriced image in the market. A strategic repositioning focusing on enterprise clients and renaming tiers can better align prices with the value offered. This adjustment can lead to increased revenue through a more targeted approach to the market.

Revenue Scenario Analysis

Scenario	Projected MRR	User Loss %	Net Change %

Recommended Pricing Strategies

Optimize +12% LOW RISK This strategy involves minor adjustments to the current tier structure, moving underpriced features like API access to higher tiers and slightly increasing prices across the board. It aims to capture more value from existing customers with minimal disruption. The conservative approach ensures that the changes are palatable to the customer base, reducing the risk of significant churn. <table><tr><th>Tier</th><th>Price</th><th>Target</th></tr><tr><td>Essential</td><td>$29</td><td>Small businesses and startups</td></tr><tr><td>Pro</td><td>$59</td><td>Growing businesses</td></tr><tr><td>Enterprise</td><td>$149</td><td>Large enterprises</td></tr></table> Steps: • Conduct customer surveys to validate changes • Adjust marketing materials to reflect new tier structure • Implement price changes with a grandfathering policy for existing customers	Tier	Price	Target	Essential	$29	Small businesses and startups	Pro	$59	Growing businesses	Enterprise	$149	Large enterprises	Transform +30% HIGH RISK This strategy involves a significant restructuring of the pricing model, introducing a new tier for very small businesses and increasing prices substantially for the higher tiers. It aims to maximize revenue potential but comes with a higher risk of customer churn due to the drastic changes. The aggressive approach requires careful customer communication and a strong value proposition to justify the changes. <table><tr><th>Tier</th><th>Price</th><th>Target</th></tr><tr><td>Starter</td><td>$9</td><td>Solo operators or very small teams</td></tr><tr><td>Growth</td><td>$99</td><td>Growing businesses</td></tr><tr><td>Corporate</td><td>$249</td><td>Large corporations</td></tr></table> Steps: • Develop a comprehensive communication plan for existing customers • Launch new tier structure with promotional offers for new customers • Monitor churn and adjust strategy as necessary	Tier	Price	Target	Starter	$9	Solo operators or very small teams	Growth	$99	Growing businesses	Corporate	$249	Large corporations	Elevate +25% MEDIUM RISK This strategy focuses on repositioning CloudHR Pro as a premium solution for enterprise clients, renaming tiers to reflect the value proposition more clearly, and adjusting prices to better compete with high-end market offerings. It involves a moderate level of change, aiming to elevate the brand's image and appeal to larger, more lucrative clients. The strategic approach balances revenue growth with the need to maintain a competitive edge in the market. <table><tr><th>Tier</th><th>Price</th><th>Target</th></tr><tr><td>Foundation</td><td>$49</td><td>Small to medium-sized businesses</td></tr><tr><td>Pinnacle</td><td>$149</td><td>Growing enterprises</td></tr><tr><td>Apex</td><td>$299</td><td>Large enterprises</td></tr></table> Steps: • Refine the value proposition to emphasize premium services • Rename tiers and adjust pricing • Develop targeted marketing campaigns to attract enterprise clients	Tier	Price	Target	Foundation	$49	Small to medium-sized businesses	Pinnacle	$149	Growing enterprises	Apex	$299	Large enterprises
